Railway Fields

Some of the children in year 3 visited Railway Fields to support their current science learning.

The children loved their visit to Railway Fields, where they explored a variety of rocks and discussed their features.

They were most excited by digging up some soil, to see what it was made of; they also investigated the wormery where they found some worms and other creatures! They also found some fossils and learnt about how they were formed. You can see some photos by clicking here...

South Haringay School

Dear Parent/Carer,

Author Visit

As we work closely with Bookmark Charity, they were thrilled to extend an exciting opportunity to South Haringay to host a special author visit, in celebration of Chris Smith, on Friday 7th February.

Chris Smith has written numerous children's books with Greg James, including The Twits Next Door. For this particular visit, he promoted his new book The New Famous Five: Five and the Forgotten Treasure, which was inspired by Enid Blyton and features some of the original characters, as well as some new characters.

This special event included: a whole school assembly for the junior children as an introduction to Chris Smith; a book presentation and a pupil Q&A session with Year 5 pupils. There were even some book signings that the children were very excited about! You can see some photos by clicking here...

Women in Science Week

The International Day of Women and Girls in Science is a global celebration of the women who work and contribute to the major scientific findings we see every day, in the past and future. It is celebrated every year on the 11th of February and was first established in 2015.

To celebrate this important day, we invited two scientists who are parents of children in Ash Class to talk to the children about how they became interested in Science at school and how much they love their jobs. Bernice is a psychiatrist, and she spoke about how she is a doctor that helps people with their thoughts, feelings and behaviours. Elena is a psychologist specialising in brain science and told the children about how important our brains are!

Reading at Peregrine House

Last week, some of our children enjoyed a visit to Peregrine House. The afternoon was spent reading to the residents and talking about some of their favourite stories and authors. The residents had a fantastic time and listened eagerly as children spoke of the author they had met earlier that morning. The children summarised some of the popular books they have recently read or shared a non-fiction picture book to get discussions between themselves and the residents going. To finish off, a snack of squash and biscuits were offered. You can see some photos by clicking here...
